DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
2. Claims 1-2, 7-8, 13, 18-19, 24-25, & 29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over JA 6-178133 in view of Pellar.

Re claims 1-2, 7-8, 13, 18-19, 24-25, & 29, JA 6-178133 discloses (Abstract) an arrangement in which the image data of an input page is read and received, the screen angle of the input page is determined based on its image data, a new dither pattern having a different screen angle is selected, and an output document is output and printed using the different screen angle.

JA 6-178133 does not disclose selecting a new dither pattern having a different screen angle from among a plurality of alternatives. The selection of a new dither pattern having a different screen angle from among a plurality of alternatives is known as evidenced by Pellar (column 3, lines 14-18). The use of such a selection in order to, for example, select between 90 degree rotation clockwise and 90 degree rotation counterclockwise in JA 6-178133 would be an expedient obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 3-6, 9-12, 14-17, 20-23, & 26-28 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

4. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

Re claims 3, 9, 14, 20, & 26 (and dependent claims 4, 10, 15, & 21), the art of record does not teach or suggest the recited detection of screen angles for various colors and selection of different screen angles for each of these colors.

Re claims 5, 11, 16, 22, & 27, the art of record does not teach or suggest the recited comparison of image data to a plurality of detection patterns and counting of matches to determine an input image screen angle.

Re claims 6, 12, 17, 23 & 28, the art of record does not teach or suggest the recited calculation of average pixel densities around a particular pixel and determination of an input document screen angle based on a density maximum.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed 08 August 2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues (Paper #8: page 9, line 19 - page 10, line 19) that the Okimoto reference teaches detection of the direction of a paper set on the device for printing and changes the printing screen angle based on that detection, rather than detecting the screen angle of a document image to be printed on the paper.

However, the claims as written recite the detection of "image data" of a "document" and the detection of a screen angle based on this "image data". This recitation does not appear to require any elements that are not found in the detection of the image of a blank page and the detection of a screen angle appropriate to the detected direction of that blank page (as in Okimoto).

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
